Dear Wayne-Westland Students, Staff and Families,

Over the past few years, you may have seen messages in the front lobby of schools that reference the commitment of Wayne-Westland Community Schools to “the whole child.”

At Wayne-Westland Community Schools, “the whole child” means;

- Care – A focus on the needs of the child in all areas.
- Membership – A sense of connection to our schools.
- Support – Advocacy for our students.
- Safety – Emotional and physical security for students.

This commitment means that we provide services that will allow our students to grow individually and socially, find a sense of purpose and have the tools necessary to pursue their passion. Our support of student mental health services is more than a banner for us, especially when considering the societal challenges of the past two years and how our mental health initiatives help support a safe and positive environment for all of our students.

This year WWCS is increasing our emphasis on the whole child by expanding our resources and access to information. This work includes strategies as basic as staff making connections with every student through simple greetings or as extensive as strengthening the partnerships between mental health service providers for our students and staff. When students feel safe and supported at school and home, they will have stronger academic performances.

I encourage you to learn more about resources available to families at our Social Emotional Learning link. In addition, our Family Resource Center (FRC) services any WWCS student or family needing resources and referrals. Please contact our FRC at 734-419-2709 or FRC@wwcsd.net for assistance.

Our district has a partnership with Care Solace. They can help you or a family member find mental health support or substance abuse services. Care Solace is a complimentary and confidential service provided to students, staff, and their families by Wayne-Westland Community School District. Care Solace’s multilingual team is available 24/7/365.
